The Cleburne waterworks company have completed their large well. It is 1000 feet deep and the supply of water is inexhaustible, or has so far proved to be, as about 300,000 gallons per day is being pumped from it. This virtually settles the water question in Cleburne, as it furnishes an abundance for all purposes. Another well is being sunk, however, with a view of obtaining artesian water. * J. M.
